

LIGHT DRAGON

A dramatic illustration of a white dragon with large red wings breathing fire over a battlefield. The dragon is the central focus, with its head lowered and mouth open, breathing a large plume of fire. Its wings are spread wide, showing a vibrant red color. The background features a mountain range under a blue sky. In the foreground, a group of soldiers in armor are visible, some holding weapons, looking up at the dragon. The overall scene is one of intense action and fantasy.

Worshipped and feared as the alleged creators of the Warlands, the Light Dragons guard both the earth and the sky. Lighter than air, they move through the firmament. More powerful than any known creature, they rule over the land. Their luminous flames are incensed by war and disperse all the darkness.
